The conference is organized from Lisbon as a global online event.

Lisbon is one of the oldest cities in Europe, dating back to the pre-Roman period. Lisbon was elected as the World’s Leading City Destination (World Travel Awards 2018).

Lisbon is marked by a distinctive geographical setting with multiple hills descending to the river Tagus delta, close to the Atlantic Ocean, providing for spectacular views. The districts of Lisbon faithfully reflect different expansion periods, serving as a display of the evolution of architectural characteristics over the ages. With monuments for the explorers of the golden age of Discoveries, the view from the São Jorge castle, or the narrow streets of the Alfama Moorish medieval district.

The 2021 edition of Euro-Par will be organized as a cooperation between INESC-ID, a research institute in the areas of computer science and electrical engineering and Instituto Superior Técnico \(IST\), the school of Engineering of Universidade de Lisboa, both located in Lisbon, Portugal.
